KING JOHN

THE knighting of FAULCONBRIDGE, which forms the principal feature of the first act of this play, has been omitted, as being impossible to be represented without words, and as it would have extended the work without adding to the interest or making it more intelligible. The scenes between FAULCONBRIDGE and AUSTRIA have been omitted for the same reason. The former is therefore not so prominent a character in the illustrations as in the play, but this is unavoidable in a case where the dialogue outweighs the actions. The costume has been strictly attended to, and what variations have been made from the costumes published by Mr Planche, sanctioned by a celebrated antiquary, have their foundation in the best authority—figures executed at the time of King John.

I.

PHILIP, King of France, demanding the kingdom of England from JOHN, in right of ARTHUR.

“ K. JOHN From whom hast thou this great commission, France,

To draw my answer from thy articles?

K. PHIL. From that supernal judge, that stirs good thoughts

In any breast of strong authority,
To look into the blots and stains of right.
That judge hath made me guardian to this boy
Under whose warrant, I impeach thy wrong;
And, by whose help, I mean to chastise it

K. JOHN Alack, thou dost usurp authority.

K. PHIL Excuse, it is to beat usurping down

ELINOR Who is it thou dost call usurper, France?

CONST. Let me make answer,—thy usurping son.

LW Women and fools, break off your conference
King John, this is the very sum of all,—

England and Ireland, Anjou, Touraine, Maine,

In right of Arthur, do I claim of thee,

Wilt thou resign them, and lay down thy arms?

K. JOHN My life as soon—I do defy thee, France.”

II

After a battle, in which neither have the advantage, under the walls of Angiers, which city holds out for England admitting neither party. The kings propose to assist each other in reducing the city to avert which the citizens propose an amicable arrangement, that the Dauphin shall marry BLANCH of Castile, KING JOHN'S niece, and that there shall be peace between France and England

" K JOHN If that the Dauphin there, thy princely son,
Can in this book of beauty read, I love,
Her dowry shall weigh equal with a queen

K PHIL What say st thou, boy? Look in the lady's face

LEW I do, my lord

K JOHN Speak then, Prince Dauphin, can you love
the lady?

LEW Nay, ask me if I can refrain from love
For I do love her most unfeignedly

GAUL (Aside) Mad world! mad kings! mad compo sition!

John, to stop Arthur's title in the whole
Hath willingly departed with a part
And France, whose armour conscience buckled on,
Whom zeal and charity brought to the field,
(As God's own soldier) rounded in the ear
With that same purpose changer, that sly devil,

Commodity, the bias of the world,

Hath drawn him from his own determined aid,
From a resolved and honourable war,
To a most base and vile concluded peace '

III.

LORD SALISBURY is sent to CONSTANCE to inform her of the peace, and to fetch her to the king.

“ CONST. Gone to be married! Gone to swear a peace
 . . . . . I will not go with thee
 . . . . . Here I and sorrow sit;
 Here is my throne, bid kings come bow to it”
 (She throws herself on the ground)

*Enter KING JOHN, KING PHILIP, LEWIS,
 BLANCH, ELINOR, &c. &c.*

“ K. PHIL. 'Tis true, fair daughter, and this blessed day
 Ever in France shall be kept festival.

 The yearly course, that brings this day about,
 Shall never see it but a holiday

CONST. A wicked day, and not a holiday!

K. PHIL. By heaven, lady, you shall have no cause
 To curse the fair proceedings of this day.

Have I not pawn'd to you my majesty?

CONST. You have beguiled me with a counterfeit
 . . . . . You are forsworn, forsworn;
 You came in arms to spill mine enemies' blood,
 But now in arms you strengthen it with yours.”

ACT III. S. I.

IV

PANDULPH the legate from the Pope, excommunicates KING JOHN, for resisting the appointment of STEPHEN LANGTON as archbishop of Canterbury, and commands PHILIP to renounce his league with him

" PAN Philip of France, on peril of a curse
 Let go the hand of that arch heretic
 And raise the power of France upon his head,
 Unless he do submit himself to Rome

ELINOR Lool 'st thou pale, France? do not let go thy hand

CONST Look to that, devil! lest that France repent,
 And by disjoining hands he ll lose a soul

LEW Bethink you, father for the difference
 Is, purchase of a heavy curse from Rome,
 Or the light loss of England for a friend
 Forego the easier

BLANCH That s the curse of Rome

PHI I am perplex'd, and know not what to say

I may disjoin my hand, but not my faith

LEW Father, to arms!

BLANCH Upon thy wedding day?
 Against the blood that thou hast married?
 O husband, hear me!

Go not to arms

Against mine uncle!

V.

A battle is fought, and ARTHUR is taken prisoner.

“ ART O this will make my mother die with grief
 ELINOR Come hither, little kinsman, hark, a word
 K. JOIN. Good Hubert, Hubert, Hubert, throw thine eye
 On yon young boy I'll tell thee what, my friend,
 He is a very serpent in my way;
 And wheresoe'er this foot of mine doth tread,
 He lies before me dost thou understand me?
 Thou art his keeper

HUB And I will keep him so,
 That he shall not offend your majesty.

K JOHN. Death.

HUB My lord?

K JOHN. A grave

HUB He shall not live.”

Act III. S. 3

VI

HUBERT going to burn out ARTHUR's eyes with hot irons

“ ART O save me, Hubert, save me! my eyes are out,
 Even with the fierce looks of those bloody men.

HUB Give me the iron, I say, and bind him here

ART. Alas! what need you be so boist'rous rough?

I will not struggle, I will stand stone still

For Heaven's sake, Hubert! let me not be bound

Nay, hear me, Hubert! drive these men away,

And I will sit as quiet as a lamb,

I will not stir, nor wince, nor speak a word,

Nor look upon the iron angerly

Thrust but these men away, and I'll forgive you

Whatever torment you do put me to.”

VII

KING JOHN on his return to England is recrowned, and having promised to his lords to grant their requests, they desire to have the keeping of ARTHUR

" K. JOHN We cannot hold mortality's strong hand —
Good lords, although my will to give is living,
The suit which you demand is gone and dead
He tells us, Arthur is deceased to night

SAL Indeed we fear'd his sickness was past cure

PEM Indeed we heard how near his death he was,
Before the child himself felt he was sick
This must be answer'd, either here or hence

K. JOHN Why do you bend such solemn brows on me?
Think you I bear the shears of destiny?
Have I commandment on the pulse of life?

SAL It is apparent foul play and tis shame,
That greatness should so grossly offer it —
So thrive it in your game! and so farewell

Act IV S 2

VIII

ARTHUR jumps off the walls of the castle

" ART The wall is high, and yet I will leap down,—
Good ground, be pitiful, and hurt me not

I am afraid and yet I'll venture it
If I get down, and do not break my limbs,
I'll find a thousand shifts to get away'

(Jumps down)
Act IV S 3

IX.

SALISBURY, PEMBROKE, and BIGOT, find the body of ARTHUR. FAULCONBRIDGE and HUBERT.

"HUB. Lords, I am hot with haste in seeking you —
Arthur doth live, the king hath sent for you.

SAL. O he is bold, and blushes not at death
Avaunt, thou hateful villain, get thee gone !

HUB I am no villain.

SAL Must I rob the law ?

FAUL. (Drawing his sword) Keep the peace, I say

BIG What wilt thou do, renowned Faulconbridge ?
Second a villain, and a murderer ?

HUB. Lord Bigot, I am none.

BIG Who kill'd this prince ?

HUB. 'Tis not an hour since I left him well :
I honour'd him, I loved him, and will weep
My date of life out for his sweet life's loss."

X.

KING JOHN resigns his crown to PANDULPH the legate, who returns it to him.

"PAN. Take again
From this my hand, as holding of the pope
Your sovereign greatness and authority."

ACT V S. 1

XI

SALISBURY, PEMBROKE, and BIGOT, join the
Dauphin in his attack upon England In the battle a French nobleman, the COUNT MELUN, is slain

"MEL. Lead me to the revolts of England here

SAL When we were happy we had other names

PEM It is the Count Melun

SAL Wounded to death

MEL Fly, noble English! you are bought and sold
 Unthread the rude eve of rebellion,
 And welcome home again discarded faith
 Seek out King John, and fall before his feet,
 For if the French be lords of this loud day,
 He means to recompense the pains you take
 By cutting off your heads

SAL May this be possible? may this be true?

Act V S 4

XII

The return of the Lords to KING JOHN, who is sick of a fever at Swinstead Abbey, with PRINCE HENRY in their company A monk brings refreshments to the king

"HUB The lords are all come back,
 And brought Prince Henry in their company
 At whose request the king hath pardon'd them,
 And they are all about his majesty

Act V S 6

XIII.

The death of KING JOHN

“ HUB. The king, I fear, is poison’d by a monk
. . . . . . . . A resolved villain,
Whose bowels suddenly burst out

ACT V S. 6

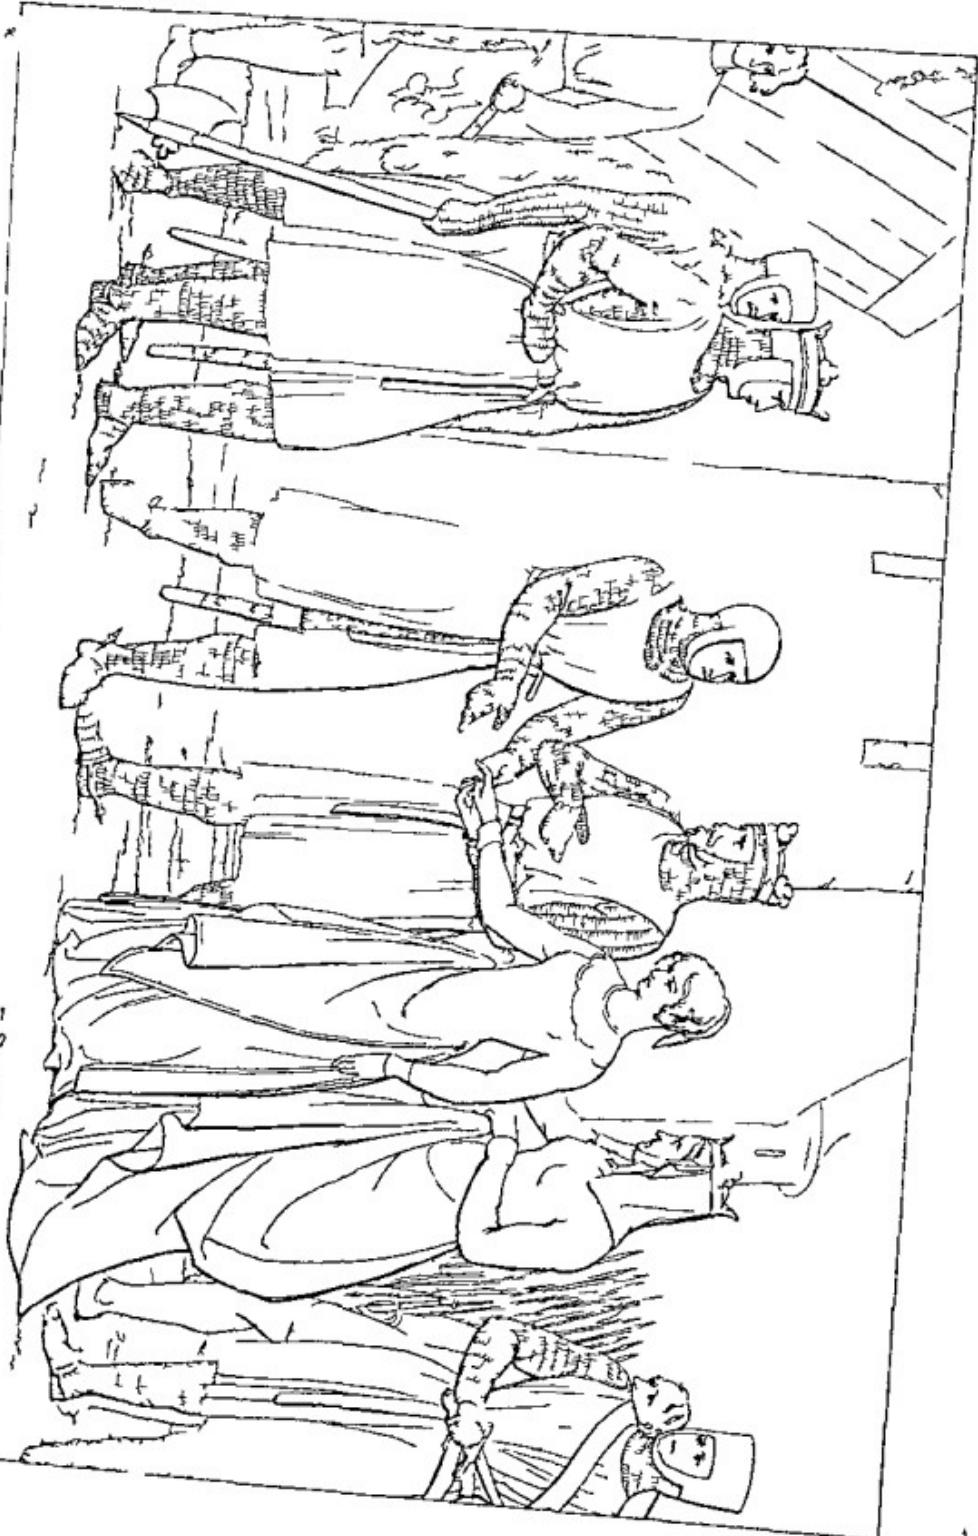

K JOHN There is so hot a summer in my bosom,
That all my bowels crumble up to dust
I am a scribbled form, drawn with a pen
Upon a parchment, and against this fire
Do I shrink up

FAUL. O, I am scalded with my violent motion,
And spleen of speed to see your majesty ”

RICHARD THE SECOND

THE singular costume of this period has been closely attended to. All creditable authorities have been consulted, and no pains spared to render the designs antiquarian documents as well as illustrations of the play. Wherever it has been practicable the genuine history has been combined with Shakspeare's version. But in some instances, where he is at variance with it, he has been followed in preference. For instance, ISABEL, the Queen, was in reality only ten years old, but Shakspeare has given her the sentiments of a woman, and she is accordingly represented as he had conceived or chosen her to be.

I

The duel at Gosford Green, between the DUKES OF HEREFORD and NORFOLK, stopped by KING RICHARD

“ RICH . . . Draw near,
 And list, what with our council we have done
 For that our kingdom’s earth should not be soil’d
 With that dear blood which it hath fostered,

Therefore, we banish you ou’ territories —
 You, cousin Hereford, upon pain of death,
 Till twice five summers have enrich’d ou’ fields,
 Shall not regreet our fair dominions.

Norfolk, for thee remains a heaviest doom,
 Which I with some unwillingness pronounce
 The fly-slow hours shall not determinate
 The dateless limit of thy deai exile,—
 The hopeless word of—never to return
 Breathe I against thee, upon pain of life

NORT. A heavy sentence, my most sovereign liege,
 And all unlook’d for from your highness’ mouth
 The language I have learn’d these forty years,
 My native English, now must I forego
 And now my tongue’s use is to me no more
 Than an unstunged viol or a harp
 I am too old to fawn upon a nurse,
 Too far in years to be a pupil now,
 What is thy sentence then, but speechless death,
 Which robs my tongue from breathing native breath ”

II

RICHARD seizing John of Gaunt's effects upon his death
The DUKE OF YORK endeavouring to prevent him

" RICH                    We do seize to us
 The plate, coin, revenues, and moveables,
 Whereof our uncle Gaunt did stand possessed

YORK   O, my liege,
 Pardon me, if you please, if not, I, pleased
 Not to be pardoned, am content withal
 Seek you to seize, and gripe into your hands,
 The royalties and rights of banished Hereford?
 Now, afore God (God forbid, I say true!)
 If you do wrongfully seize Hereford's rights
 You pluck a thousand dangers on your head,
 You lose a thousand well-disposed hearts,
 And prick my tender patience to those thoughts
 Which honour and allegiance cannot think

RICH   Think what you will, we seize into our hands
 His plate, his goods his money, and his lands

Acr II S 1

III

BOLINGBROKE, returned from banishment, in arms, joined by the EARL OF NORTHUMBERLAND,
&c

“NORTH Here come the lords of Ross and Willoughby,
Bloody with spurring, fiery-red with haste

Enter YORK, attended

YORK Why have those banish'd and forbidden legs
Dared once to touch a dust of England's ground ?

Were I but now the lord of such hot youth,
As when brave Gaunt, thy father, and myself,
Rescued the Black Prince, that young Mars of men,
From forth the ranks of many thousand French,
O, then, how quickly should this arm of mine,
Now prisoner to the palsy, chastise thee,
And minister correction to thy fault !

BOL My gracious uncle, let me know my fault,
On what condition stands it, and wherein ?

YORK Even in condition of the worst degree,—
In gross rebellion, and detested treason
Thou art a banish'd man, and here art come
Before the expiration of thy time,
In braving arms against thy sovereign.

BOL As I was banish'd, I was banish'd Hereford,
But as I come, I come for Lancaster
My father's goods are all distrain'd and sold,
And these, and all, are all amiss employ'd

NORTH The noble duke hath been too much abused.

ROSS It stands your grace upon to do him right.

WILL Base men by his endowments are made great

NORTH The noble duke hath sworn, his coming is
 But for his own end, for the right of that,
 We all have strongly sworn to give him aid
 And let him never see joy, that breaks that oath."

ACT II S 3

IV

RICHARD s return from Ireland, met by the EARL OF SALISBURY

"Rich Welcome, my lord How far off lies your power?
 Salis Nor near, nor further off, my gracious lord
 Than this weak arm

O call back yesterday, bid time return,
 And thou shalt have twelve thousand fighting men!
 To day, to day, unhappy day, too late
 Oerthrows thy joys, friends, fortune, and thy state
 For all the Welshmen, hearing thou wert dead
 Are gone to Bolingbroke, dispersed, and fled

AUVERLE Comfort my liege why looks your grace so pale?

Rich But now the blood of twenty thousand men
 Did triumph in my face, and they are fled
 And, till so much blood thither come again
 Have I not reason to look pale and dead?

ACT III S 2

V

The meeting between BOLINGBROKE and RICHARD.

" Bolin Stand all apart,
And show fair duty to his majesty —
My gracious lord, —" (Kneeling)

RICH Fair cousin, you debase your princely knee,
To make the base earth proud with kissing it,
Me rather had, my heart might feel your love,
Than my displeased eye see your courtesy
Up, cousin, up, your heart is up, I know,
Thus high at least, (touching his head.) although your knee be low "

Act III S. 3

VI

QUEEN overhearing the conversation of the Gardeners.

" GARD Go, bind thou up yon dangling apricocks,
Which, like unly children, make their sire
Stoop with oppression of their prodigal weight,
Give some supportance to the bending twigs

1 SERV Why should we, in the compass of a pale,
Keep law, and form, and due proportion,
Showing, as in a model, our firm estate,
When our sea-walled garden, the whole land,
Is full of weeds?

GARD Hold thy peace —
He that hath suffer'd this disorder'd spring,
Hath now himself met with the fall of leaf

Bolingbroke
Hath seized the wasteful king

All superfluous branches
We lop away, that bearing boughs may live
Had he done so, himself had boine the crown,
Which waste of idle houis hath quite thown down

SERV What, think you then, the King shall be deposed?
 GARD Depress'd he is already and deposed,
 Tis doubt, he will be
 QUEEN O, I am press'd to death,
 Through want of speaking!

Act III S 1

VII

The Entry of BOLINGBROKE and RICHARD into London

" The duke, great Bolingbroke,— Mounted upon a hot and fiery steed,
 Which his aspiring rider seem'd to know,—
 With slow, but stately pace, kept on his course,
 While all tongues cried—God save thee, Bolingbroke !
 You would have thought the very windows spike,
 So many greedy looks of young and old
 Through casements darted their desiring eyes
 Upon his visage and that all the walls
 With painted imagery, had said at once,—
 Jesu preserve thee ! welcome, Bolingbroke !
 Whilst he, from one side to the other turning,
 Bare headed, lower than his proud steed's neel
 Bespoke them thus—I thank you, countrymen
 And thus still doing, thus he pass'd along

As in a theatre, the eyes of men,
 After a well graced actor leaves the stage,
 Are idly bent on him that enters next,
 Thinking his prattle to be tedious
 Even so, or with much more contempt, men's eyes
 Did scowl on Richard, no man cried, God save him
 But dust was thrown upon his sacred head "

Act V S 2

VIII

The resignation of the crown to BOLINGBROKE by RICHARD

“ Rich I give this heavy weight from off my head,
And this unwieldy sceptre from my hand,
The pride of kingly sway from out my heart,
With mine own tears I wash away my balm,
With mine own hands I give away my crown,
With mine own tongue deny my sacred state,
With mine own breath release all duteous oaths
God pardon all oaths, that are broke to me !
God keep all vows unbroke, are made to thee !
Make me, that nothing have, with nothing grieved,
And thou with all pleased, that hast all achieved
Long may’st thou live in Richard’s seat to sit,
And soon lie Richard in an earthy pit !”

Act IV S 1

IX

The parting between RICHARD and his QUEEN, on his way to the Tower

“ QUEEN

Ah, thou, the model where old Troy did stand ,
Thou map of honour, thou King Richard’s tomb,
And not King Richard , thou most beauteous inn,
Why should hard-favour’d grief be lodged in thee,
When triumph is become an ale-house guest ?

RICH Join not with grief, fair woman, do not so,
To make my end too sudden lean, good soul,
To think our former state a happy dream

Hie thee to France,
And cloister thee in some religious house
Our holy lives must win a new world’s crown,
Which our profane hours here have stricken down ”

X

The Murder of RICHARDEnter EXTON, and Servants, armed

" Rich How now? what means death in this rude assault?

Villain, thy own hand yields thy death's instrument

(Snatches a weapon, and kills one)

Go thou, and fill another room in hell

(He kills another, and then EXTON strikes him down.)

ACT V S 5

For the precise form of the very peculiar helmets introduced into these designs, I have to thank B Brocas, Esq of Wokingham, Berks who is in possession of the only one, probably, at this time remaining. The shape, when represented in old manuscripts, is quite unintelligible, and there is no correct engraving of it published.

PART I

ALTHOUGH this play is founded on historical events, the real personages are by no means the most important characters in the drama FALSTAFF, the poet's creation, is the hero Almost all the incidents are so contrived as to give him the chief interest, and, indeed, this seems absolutely necessary from the richness of the historical materials HORSIUS, GLENDOWER, and DOUGLAS, vie too closely with PRINCE HENRY, and with each other, to allow of any one consistently being made more prominent than his compeers The formidable character of the insurrection would have been destroyed by lessening the importance of any one of the triumvrate FALSTAFF therefore, bears the burden of the play, is thrown into the most conspicuous situations, and, in consequence, usurps a considerable portion of the illustrative department

The fop is taken from a representation of Narcissus done at the time HENRY THE FOURTH, the princes HENRY and JOHN, and the EARL OF WESTMORELAND, the portraits

I.

HOTSPUR after the battle at Holmedon.

“ Hois . . . I remember, when the fight was done,
When I was dry with rage, and extreme toil,
Breathless and faint, leaning upon my sword,
Came there a certain lord, neat, trimly dress'd,
Fresh as a bridegroom, and his chin new reap'd,
Shew'd like a stubble land at harvest home
He was perfumed like a milliner ;
And 'twixt his finger and his thumb he held
A pouncet-box, which ever and anon
He gave his nose, and took 't away again ;
Who therewith angry, when it next came there,
Took it in snuff —and still he smiled and talk'd,
And, as the soldiers bore dead bodies by,
He call'd them untaught knaves, unmannerly,
To bring a slovenly, unhandsome corse
Betwixt the wind and his nobility
With many holiday and lady terms
He question'd me among the rest demanded
My prisoners.”

II

HOTSPUR defending himself before the KING against the charge of having denied the prisoners — WORCESTER banished from the presence

"HENRY Worcester, get thee gone, for I see danger
And disobedience in thine eye

(To NORTHUMBERLAND) You were about to speak

NORTH Yea, my good lord,
Those prisoners in your highness' name demanded,
Which Harry Percy here at Holmedon took
Were, as he says, not with such strength denied
As is delivered to your majesty
Either envy, therefore, or misprision,
Is guilty of this fault, and not my son

HOTS My liege, I did deny no prisoners

I then all smarting, my wounds being cold,
To be so pestered with a popinjay,
Out of my grief, and my impatience,
Answered, neglectingly, I know not what
He should, or he should not —

HENRY My lord Northumberland,
We license your departure with your son
Send us your prisoners, or you'll hear of it

Act I S 3

FALSTAFF, BARDOLPH, GADSHILL, and PETO, having robbed and bound some travellers, are about to share the plunder, when PRINCE HENRY and POINS, disguised, set on them

“ P HENRY Your money
POINS. Villains!”

(FALSTAFF, after a blow or two, and the rest, run away.)

HOTSPUR and LADY PERCY

"LADY P But hear you, my lord

HOTS What say'st, my lady?

LADY P What is it carries you away?

HOTS My horse,

My love, my horse

LADY P Out, ye madheaded ape!

A weazel hath not such a deal of spleen

As you are toss'd with In faith,

I'll know your business, Harry, that I will

I fear my brother Mortimer doth stir

About his title, and hath sent for you

To hine his enterprise but if you go—

HORS So far afoot, I shall be weary love

LADY P Come, come, you paraquito, answer me

FALSTAFF, relating his adventures to PRINCE HENRY and POINS.

“ FALS I have 'scaped by a miracle. I am eight times thrust through the doublet; four through the hose, my buckler cut through and through, my sword hacked like a handsaw, ecce signum . . . . I have paid two in buckram suits Thou knowest my old ward; here I lay, and thus I bore my point. Four rogues in buckram let drive at me.

P. HENRY. Four! why, thou saidst but two, even now.

FALS. Four, Hal; I told thee four.

POINS. Ay, ay, he said four.

FALS These four came all afront, and mainly thrust at me, I made no more ado, but took their seven points in my target, thus ”

ACT II. S 4.

VI

FALSTAFF playing the part of the KING

P HENRY Do thou stand for my father, and examine me upon the particulars of my life

FALS Shall I? content this chair shall be my state, this dagger my sceptre, and this cushion my crown

P HENRY Thy state is taken for a joint stool, thy golden sceptre for a leaden dagger, and thy precious rich crown for a pitiful bald crown

FALS Well, an the fire of grace be not quite out of thee, now shalt thou be moved

P HENRY Well, here s my leg

FALS And here s my speech—stand aside, nobility

Host O rare! he doth it as like one of those harlotry players, as ever I see '

Act II S 4

HOTSPUR, GLENDOWER, and MORTIMER, dividing the kingdom.

“ Hois Methinks my moiety, north from Burton here,
In quantity equals not one of yours.
See, how this river comes me cranking in,
And cuts me, from the best of all my land,
A huge half-moon, a monstrous cantle out.
I’ll have the current in this place damm’d up,
And here the snug and silver Trent shall run
In a new channel fair and evenly.
It shall not wind with such a deep indent,
To rob me of so rich a bottom here

GLEN. Not wind? it shall, it must, you see it doth ”

ACT III. S 1.

Death of HOTSPUR

(Enter DOUGLAS he fights with FALSTAFF, who falls down as if he were dead, and exit DOUGLAS
HOTSPUR is wounded and falls)

" Hots O Harry, thou hast robb'd me of my youth
I better brool the loss of brittle life,
Than those proud titles thou hast won of me
They wound my thoughts worse than thy sword my flesh '

Act V S 4

IX

“ P JOHN But soft, whom have we here ?
Did you not tell me this fat man was dead ?

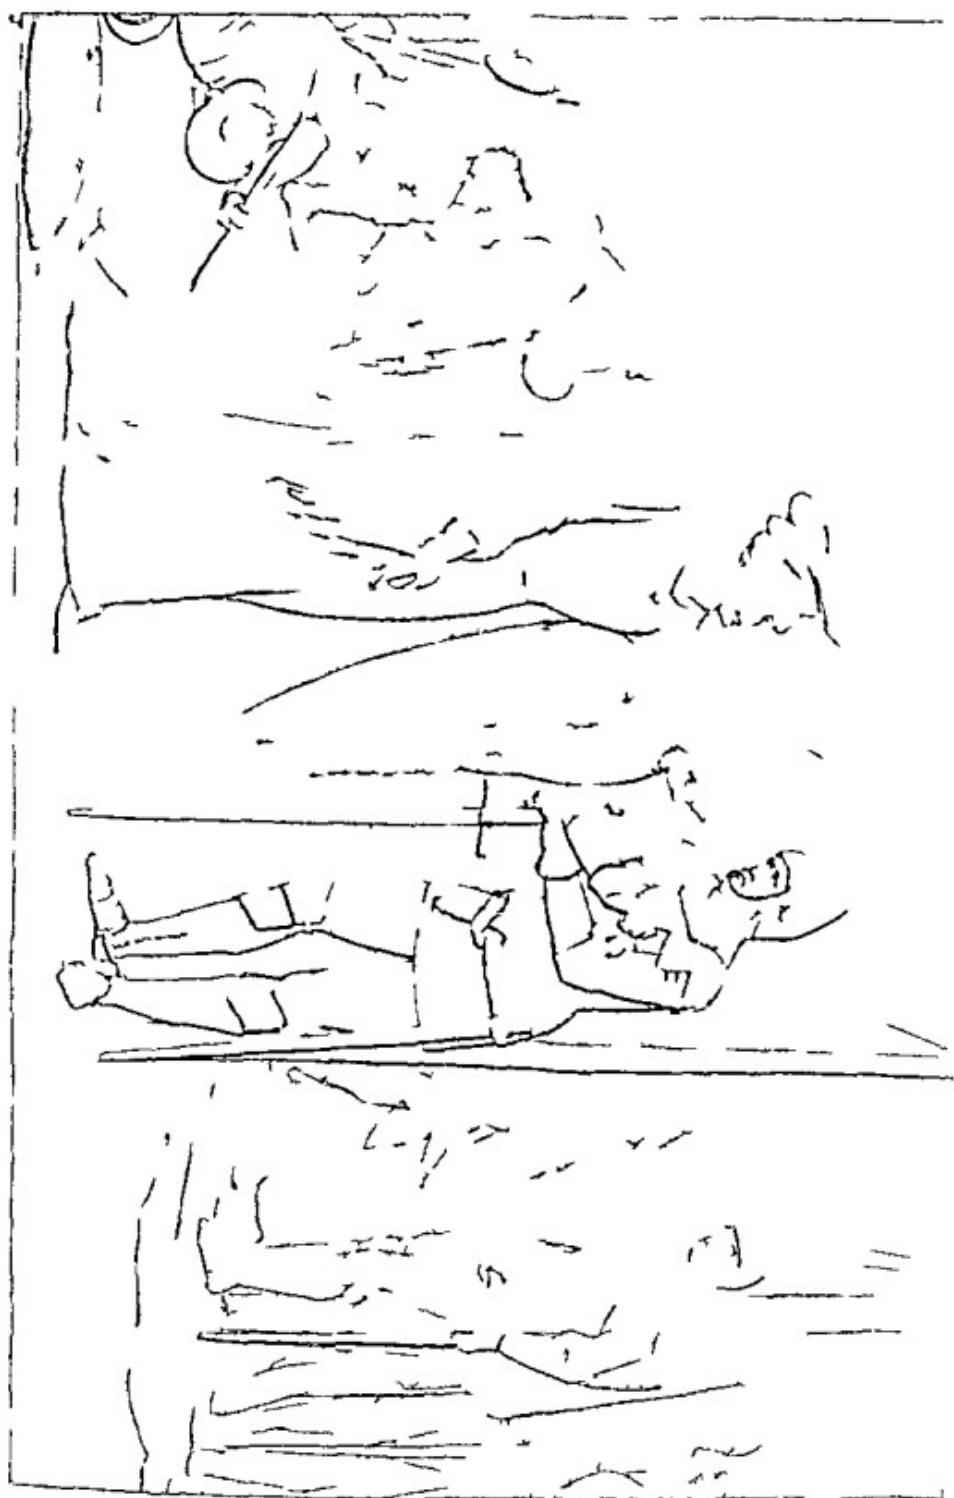

P. HENRY. I did I saw him dead, breathless, and bleeding
Upon the ground
Art thou alive? or is it fantasy
That plays upon our eyesight? I pr'ythee speak ,
We will not trust our eyes without our ears —
Thou art not what thou seem'st.

FALS No, that's certain I am not a double man, but if I be not Jack Falstaff, then am I a Jack. There is Percy (throwing the body down). if your father will do me any honour, so , if not, let him kill the next Percy himself
I look to be either earl or duke, I can assure you

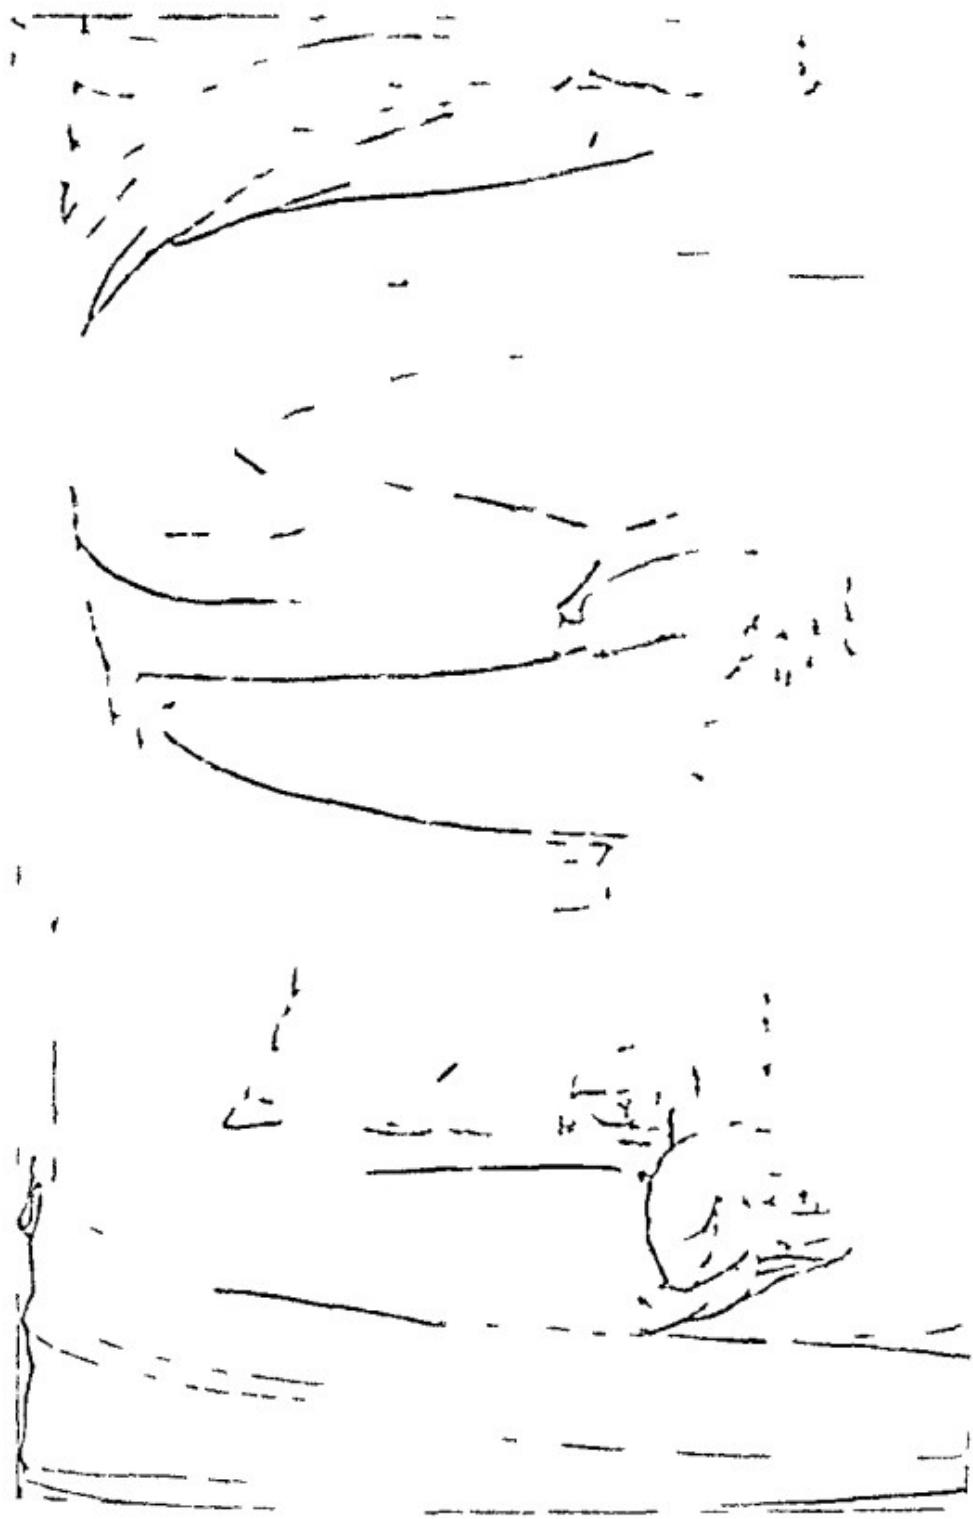

P. HENRY Why, Percy I killed myself, and saw thee dead.

FALS Didst thou? Lord, Lord, how this world is given to lying! I grant you I was down, and out of breath, and so was he . but we both rose at an instant, and fought a long hour by Shrewsbury clock If I may be believed, so , if not, let them that should reward valour bear the sin upon their own heads I'll take it upon my death I gave him this wound in the thigh, if the man were alive and would deny it, I would make him eat a piece of my sword.”

PART II

LALSTARI is also, in a great measure, the hero of this continuation of the reign of HENRY THE FOURTH, but from there being less of action in this than in the former drama, he does not become so conspicuous in the illustrations. The rivals of PRINCE HENRY, on the other hand, being removed, his character is raised towards the close of the play, to prepare for the great change which took place in his habits on ascending the throne, the poet having probably, whilst writing this play, determined on the reign of HENRY THE FIFTH for his next subject. The EARL OF WARWICK and the LORD CHIEF JUSTICE are in this part portraits, in addition to those introduced in the first part of the play.

NORTHUMBERLAND, LADY NORTHUMBERLAND, and LADY PERCY.

“ NORTH I pray thee, loving wife, and gentle daughter,
Give even way unto my rough affairs
Put not you on the visage of the times,
And be, like them, to Percy troublesome

LADY N I have given over, I will speak no more,
Do what you will your wisdom be your guide

NORTH Alas, sweet wife, my honour is at pawn,
And, but my going, nothing can redeem it.

LADY P O yet, for God’s sake, go not to these wars !
The time was, father, that you broke your word,
When you were more endear’d to it than now;
When your own Percy, when my heart’s dear Harry Threw many a northward look, to see his father
Bring up his pow’rs, but he did long in vain.

Never, O never do his ghost the wrong,
To hold your honour more precise and nice
With others than with him Let them alone .
The Marshal and the Archbishop are strong
Had my sweet Harry had but half their numbers,
To-day might I, hanging on Hotspur’s neck,
Have talk’d of Monmouth’s grave.

NORTH Beshrew your heart,
Fair daughter ! you do draw my spirits from me,
With new lamenting ancient oversights.”

FALSTAFF and DOLL TEARSHEET

"FALS A rascal, to brave me!"

DOLL Ah, you sweet little rogue you! Alas poor ape, how thou sweat'st! come let me wipe thy face, come on, you whoreson chops —Ah, rogue! I faith I love thee Thou art as valorous as Hector of Troy, worth five of Agamem non and ten times better than the nine worthies Ah, villain!

FALS A rascally slave! I will toss the rogue in a blanket

DOLL Do if thou darest, for thy heart if thou do st, I'll canvass thee between a pair of sheets

FALSTAFF, “misusing the King's press damnabley”

“BARD Sir, a word with you I have three pound to free Mouldy and Bulcalf.

FALS Go to well

SHAL. Come, Sir John, which four will you have?

FALS. Do you choose for me.

SHAL. Marry then—Mouldy, Bulcalf, Feeble, and Shadow

FALS Mouldy and Bulcalf —For you, Mouldy, stay at home still, you are past service and for your part, Bulcalf, grow till you come unto it I will none of you.

SHAL Sir John, Sir John, do not yourself wrong, they are the likeliest men, and I would have you served with the best

FALS. Will you tell me, master Shallow, how to choose a man? Care I for the limb, the thewes, the stature, bulk, and big assemblance of a man? give me the spirit, master Shallow Here's Wart, you see what a ragged appearance it is he shall charge you and discharge you with the motion of a pewterer's hammer, come off and on, swifter than he that gibbets on the brewer's bucket And this same half-faced fellow Shadow—give me this man, he presents no mark to the enemy, the foeman may with as great aim level at the edge of a penknife and, for a retreat, how swiftly will this Feeble, the woman's tailor, run off! Oh give me the spare men, and spare me the great ones”

IV

The arrest of HASTINGS, MOWBRAY, and the ARCHBISHOP OF YORK

"HAST My lord, our army is dispersed already
 Like youthful steers unyoked, they take their courses
 East, west north, south or like a school broke up
 Each hurries toward his home and sporting place

WEST Good tidings, my lord Hastings, for the which
 I do arrest thee traitor, of high treason
 And you, lord Archbishop and you, lord Mowbray,
 Of capital treason I attach you both

MOWB Is this proceeding just and honourable?

WEST Is your assembly so?

ARCHB Will you thus break your futh?

P JOHN I pawn'd thee none
 I promised you redress of these same grievances
 Whereof you did complain which, by mine honour
 I will perform with a most Christian care
 But for you, rebels look to taste the due
 Meet for rebellion, and such acts as yours
 Most shallowly did you these arms commence
 Fondly brought here and foolishly sent hence
 Strike up our drums, pursue the scatter'd stray,
 Heaven and not we hath safely fought to day
 Some guard these traitors to the block of death
 Treason's true bed and yelder up of breath

ACT IV S 2

V

KING HENRY, receiving intelligence of the overthrow of his enemies

“ WEST Health to my sovereign, and new happiness
Added to that I am to deliver !

Prince John, your son, doth kiss your grace’s hand
Mowbray, the Bishop, Scroop, Hastings, and all,
Are brought to the correction of the law ,
There is not now a rebel’s sword unsheathe’d,
But peace puts forth her olive every where
The manner how this action hath been borne,
Here at more leisure may your highness read,
With every course, in its particular

KING O Westmoreland, thou art a summer bird,
Which ever in the launch of winter sings
The lifting up of day. Look, here’s more news

Enters HAROURT

HAR. From enemies, Heaven keep your majesty
And when they stand against you, may they fall
As those that I am come to tell you of !
The earl of Northumberland, and the lord Bardolph,
Are by the sheriff of Yorkshire overthrown
The manner and true order of the fight,
This packet, please it you, contains at large ”

ACT IV S 4

HARCOURT has been represented displaying the banner of NORTHUMBERLAND, as an indication of the nature of the intelligence he brings.

VI

PRINCE HENRY catching his father while asleep

“ By his gates of breath
There lies a downy feather, which stirs not
Did he suspire, that light and weightless down
Perforce must move My gracious lord! my father!
This sleep is sound indeed this is a sleep,
That from this golden rigol hath divorced
So many English kings Thy due from me
Is tears, and heavy sorrows of the blood
Which nature, love, and filial tenderness
Shall, O dear father, pay thee plenteously
My due from thee is this imperial crown,
Which, as immediate from thy place and blood
Derives itself to me

VII

The KING walking misses the crown from his pillow, and sends for PRINCE HENRY

“ P HENRY I never thought to hear you speak again
 KING. Thy wish was father, Harry, to that thought
 I stay too long by thee, I weary thee
 Dost thou so hunger for my empty chair,
 That thou wilt needs invest thee with mine honours
 Before thy hour be ripe? O foolish youth!
 Thou seek’st the greatness that will overwhelm thee
 Thy life did manifest thou lov’dst me not,
 And thou wilt have me die assured of it

P HENRY O, pardon me, my liege! but for my tears, (Kneeling)

The moist impediments unto my speech,
 I had forestall’d this dear and deep rebuke,
 Ere you with grief had spoke, and I had heard
 The course of it so far. There is your crown,
 And he that wears the crown immortally
 Long guard it yours If I affect it more,
 Than as your honour and your renown,
 Let me no more from this obedience rise
 (Which my most true and inward dutious spirit Teacheth), this prostrate and exterior bending
 Heaven witness with me, when I here came in
 And found no breath within your majesty,
 How cold it struck my heart!”

ACT IV S 4

VIII

After the death of HENRY THE FOURTH

KING HENRY THE FIFTH PRINCES CLARENCE, JOHN, and HUMPHREY, the EARLS WARWICK and WESTMORELAND, and the CHIEF JUSTICE

"KING This new and gorgeous garment, majesty,
Sits not so easy on me as you think
Brothers, you mix your sadness with some fear
You all look strangely on me,—and you most

(To the Chief Justice)

You are, I think, assured I love you not

CHIEF J I am assured, if I be measured rightly,
Your majesty hath no just cause to hate me

KING No!

How might a prince of my great hopes forget
So great indignities you laid upon me?

What! rate rebuke, and roughly send to prison
The immediate heir of England! Was this easy?
May this be wash'd in Lethe and forgotten

CHIEF J I then did use the power of thy father
The image of his power lay then in me
And in the administration of his law,
Whiles I was busy for the commonwealth,
Your highness pleased to forget my place,
The majesty and power of law and justice
The image of the king whom I presented,
And struel me in my very seat of judgment
Whereon, as an offender to your father,
I gave bold way to my authority,
And did commit you'

IX

The KING, returning from his coronation, is saluted by FALSTAFF, PISTOL, &c whom he banishes

“ FALS God save thy grace, King Hal, my royal Hal !
 PIST The heavens thee guard and keep, most royal imp of fame

FALS God save thee, my sweet boy

KING. My Lord Chief Justice, speak to that vain man

I banish thee, on pain of death,
 As I have done the rest of my misleaders,
 Not to come near our person by ten miles
 For competence of life, I will allow you,
 That lack of means enforce you not to evil
 And as we hear you do reform yourselves,
 We will, according to your strength and qualities,
 Give you advancement Be it your charge, my lord,
 To see perform'd the tenor of our word ”

THE MERRY WIVES OF WINDSOR

THE structure of this comedy resembles a few days passed at an inn. Characters and incidents seem thrown together, without any artifice or design, and it appears so much like an every day occurrence, that plot or plan is hardly discoverable. From this circumstance it becomes difficult to translate into a connected series of illustrations, whilst it affords many admirable detached subjects for the painter. That part of the plot which gives the name of the comedy has been selected for the principal subject of these designs, and such of the other incidents as could be connected with it have been introduced.

An essay having been lately published upon the character of MASTER SLENDER, it becomes necessary to give a slight vindication of a totally different representation of the character. This is not the place to enter into a long discussion upon the subject, but authorities will be given, it is conceived of sufficient weight, for the appearance he makes in the present outlines.

4 REFERENCES DESCRIPTIVE OF THE PLATES

“ He hath but a little wee face, with a little yellow beard ”

“ But as tall a man of his hands as any between this and his head he hath fought with a warrener ”

“ He holds his head up as it were, and struts in his gait.”

“ He plays at sword and dagger with a master of fence,” for a wager.

Therefore is he neither vulgar nor awkward in his person

He has the manners to give place to the young lady:

“ Mistress Anne, yourself shall go first,”

but he has also, what are more rarely to be found, the manners

“ rather to be unmanly than troublesome ”

He has the sense and consideration to send his man to wait upon his cousin, with a remark fair removed from folly,

“ Go, sirrah, for all you are my man, go, wait upon my cousin Shallow a justice of peace sometime may be beholden to his friend for a man ”

And in his courtship of MISTRESS ANNE, he only upon him, that he would marry her to comply with the request of his cousin SHALLOW, evidently making light of matrimony as he "would do a greater thing than that upon your request, cousin, in any reason"

It is therefore conceived that he is not the awkward, foolish lout that he is generally represented, and, in the essay abovementioned, asserted to be, and a totally different character from Ben Jonson's MASTER STEPHEN

Should FALSTAFF be deemed too wieldy, it is suggested that, in another play, he will have to take up from the ground on to his shoulder, Hotspur in his armour

SLEN Whoo, ho! ho! father Page!

PAGE Son! how now? how now, son? have you despatched?

SLEN Despatched!—I'll make the best in Gloucester shire know on't, would I were hanged, ha, else

PAGE Of what, son?

SLEN I came yonder at Eton to marry mistress Anne Page, and she's a great lubberly boy If I did not think it had been Anne Page, would I might never stir and tis a post master's boy

EVANS Jeshu! master Slender, cannot you see but marry boys?

PAGE O, I am vexed at heart what shall I do?

MRS PAGE Good George, be not angry I knew of your purpose turned my daughter into green and, indeed, she is now with the doctor at the deinary, and there married

Enter CAIUS

CAIUS Vere is mistress Page? By gar, I am cozened I ha married un garçon, a boy un paisan, by gar a boy it is not Anne Page by gar, I am cozened

FAL I am glad though you have taken a special stand to strike at me, that your arrow hath glanced

HENRY THE FIFTH

THE circumstances which give the great interest to the reign of HENRY THE FIFTH, and of which Shakspeare has taken full advantage in the play—viz., the intense excitement and anxiety in the small number of sickly English in the heart of an enemy's country, with the flower of that enemy unused to oppose their progress on the plains of Agincourt—are not within the reach of illustration. It is impossible to give the slightest idea of the relative situation of the two armies, with respect to numerical force or individual physical strength. This, therefore, has not been attempted, and the subjects from this play are few in number.

Wherever portraits are to be had, they have been made use of. HENRY EXETER, BEDFORD, WARWICK, WESTMORLAND, and the PRINCESS KATHARINE, are from the only existing authorities.

I

HENRY receiving the French embassy and present of tennis-balls.

“AMB Your highness, lately sending into France,
 Did claim some certain dukedoms, in the right
 Of your great predecessor, King Edward the Third,
 In answer of which claim, the prince, our master,
 Says—That you savour too much of your youth,
 And bids you be advised, there’s nought in France
 That can be with a nimble galliard won,
 You cannot revel into dukedoms there,
 He therefore sends you, meeter for your spirit,
 This tun of treasure, and, in lieu of this,
 Desnes you, let the dukedoms that you claim
 Heal no more of you. This the dauphin speaks.

K HEN. What treasure, uncle?

EXE Tennis-balls, my liege

K HEN We are glad the dauphin is so pleasant with us,

This present, and your pains, we thank you for
 When we have match’d our jackets to these balls,
 We will, in France, by God’s grace, play a set
 Shall strike his father’s crown into the hazard

This jest will savour but of shallow wit,
 When thousands weep more than did laugh at it”

Act I S 2

II

The discory of the conspiracy of CAMBRIDGE, SCROOP, and GREY, to murder the King at Southampton

"K HEN                          But O !
 What shall I say to thee, Lord Scroop, thou cruel,
 Ingrateful, sivile, and inhuman creature !
 Thou that didst bear the key of all my counsele,
 That knew st the very bottom of my soul,
 That almost might st have coin'd me into gold,
 Would st thou have practised on me for thy use ?
 May it be possible, that foreign hire
 Could out of thee extract one spark of evil
 That might annoy my finger ? tis so strunge,
 That, though the truth of it stands off as gross
 As black from white, my eye will scarcely see it

Act II S 2

III

The death of TALSTAFF

"MRS QUICKLY      For after I saw him fumble with the sheets, and play with flowers, and smile upon his fingers ends I knew there was but one way for his nose was as sharp as a pen, and a babbled of green fields

So a bade me lay more clothes on his feet I put my hand into the bed and felt them, and they were as cold as my stone

Act II S 3

IV

The siege of Harfleur.

"K HEN. Once more unto the breach, dear friends, once more,
Or close the wall up with our English dead !

I see you stand like greyhounds in the slips
Straining upon the start. The game's afoot,
Follow your spirit, and upon this charge,
Cry—God for Harry ! England ! and St. George !"

Act III. S. 1

V

The battle of Agincourt

"K HEN. When Alençon and myself were down together."

VI

FLUELLEN compelling PISTOL to eat the leek

"FLU You called me yesterday mountain squire but I will make you to-day a squire of low degree I pray you fall to if you can mock a leek, you can eat a leek

Pite, I pray you it is goot for your green wound, and your bloody coxcomb

PIST By this leek I will most horribly revenge
I eat, and eke I swear'

VII.

KING HENRY courts the PRINCESS KATHARINE of France

“ K. HEN A good leg will fall, a straight back will stoop, a black beard will turn white, a curled pate will grow bald, a fair face will wither, a full eye will wax hollow, but a good heart, Kate, is the sun and moon; or, rather, the sun, and not the moon, for it shines bright, and never changes, but keeps his course truly. If thou would have such a one, take me, and take me, take a soldier, take a soldier, take a king. And what sayest thou then to my love? speak, my fan, and fairly, I pray thee

KATH. Is it possible that I should love the enemy of France?

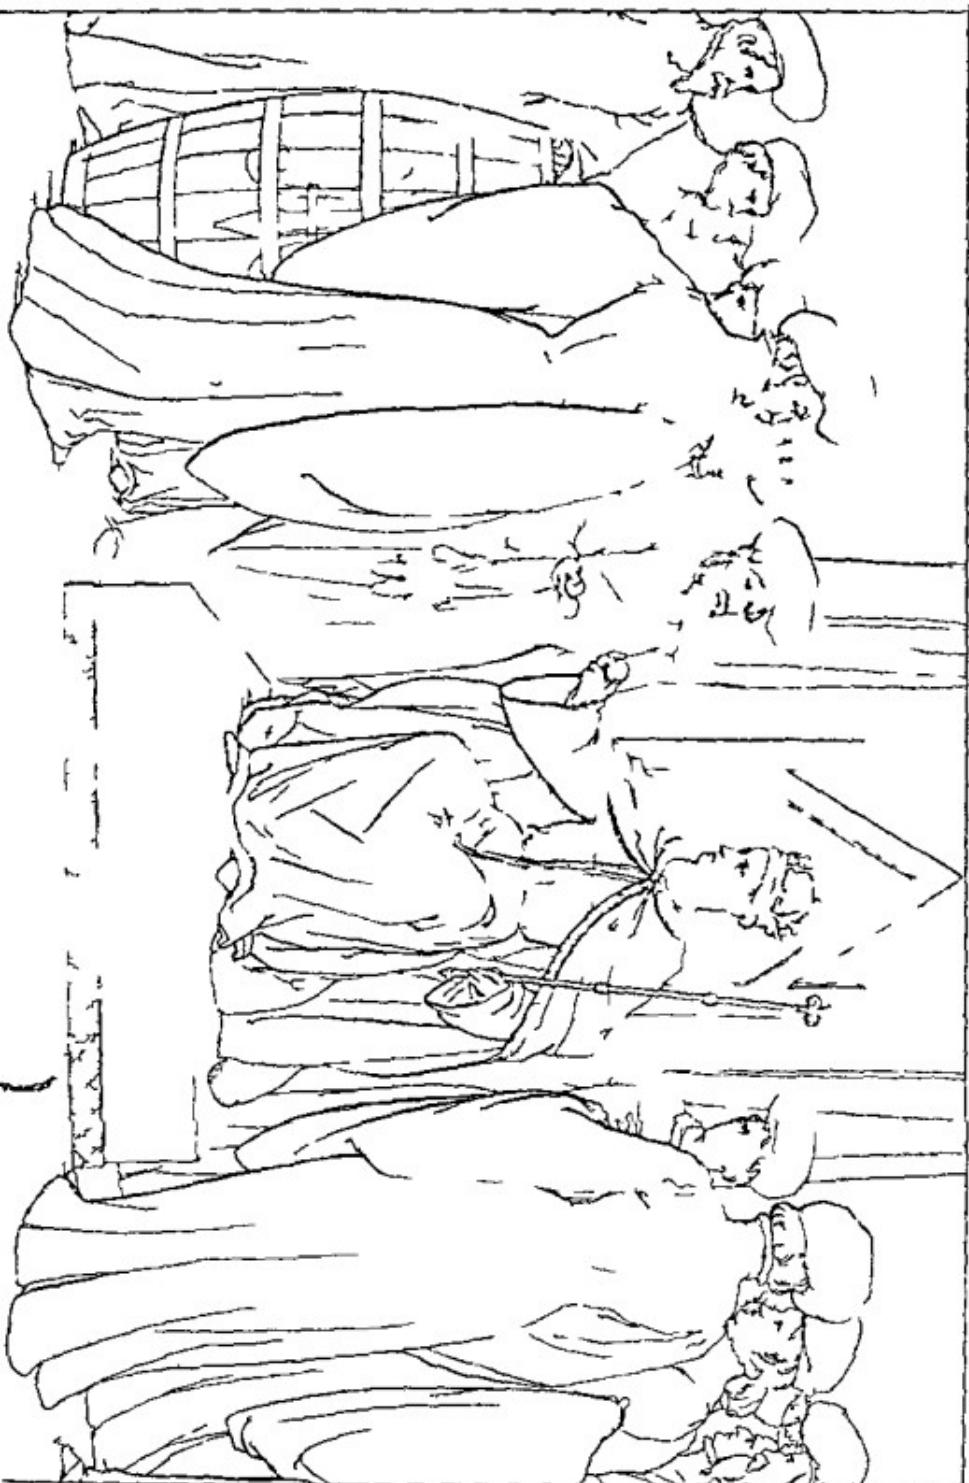

K HEN No, it is not possible that you should love the enemy of France, Kate but in loving me you should love the friend of France, for I love France so well, that I will not part with a village of it, I will have it all mine, and, Kate, when France is mine, and I am yours, then yours is France, and you are mine.”

Act V S 2.

VIII

*The marriage of KING HENRY with the PRINCESS
KATHARINE —BURGUNDY and other Peers swear fealty to HENRY as successor to the throne of France*

“ Prepare we for our marriage,—on which day
My Lord of Burgundy will take your oath,
And all the peers, for surety of our leagues.
Then shall I swear to Kate, and you to me,
And may our oaths well kept and prosperous be.”

PART I

ALMOST the only incidents in this commencement of the long and disastrous reign of HENRY THE SIXTH occur in the various battles which took place between the English and the French. They have been condensed and varied as much as possible, and an attempt has been made to excite an interest by historical and antiquarian accuracy as near as the poet will allow. In this part, HENRY, the dauphin, REIGNIER MARGARET, the bastard of Orleans, BURGUNDY, and TALBOT, are from the only existing portraits. And to connect this play with the last, the funeral procession of HENRY THE FIFTH, as it ha been authentically described, is introduced as the first illustration in lieu of the body lying in state in Westminster Abbey.

I

The funeral of HENRY THE FIFTH.—The Queen and her infant son in the foreground

“BED Hung be the heavens with black, yield day to night!

Comets, importing change of times and states,
Brandish your crystal tresses in the sky,
And with them scourge the bad revolting stars,
They have consented unto Henry’s death!
Henry the Fifth, too famous to live long;
England ne’er lost a king of so much worth”

II

JOAN OF ARC entering Orleans, having defeated the English, who were laying siege to it

“TAL Where is my strength, my valour, and my force?
Our English troops retire, I cannot stay them.
A woman, clad in armour chaseth them!
Here, here she comes,—I’ll have a bout with thee,
Devil, or devil’s dam, I’ll conjure thee,
Blood will I draw on thee, thou art a witch,
And straightway give thy soul to him thou serv’st

LA PUC Come, come, ’tis only I that must disgrace thee
TAL Heavens! can you suffer hell so to prevail?

LA PUC Talbot, farewell, thy hour is not yet come,
I must go virtual Orleans forthwith”

(LA PUCELLE enters the town with soldiers.)

III

Orleans retaken by the English by escalade The French leap over the walls in their shirts

(Enter several cays, BAS TARD, ALF NCON, and REIGNIER, half ready and half unready )

"REIGN Twas time, I trow, to wake and leave our beds
Hearing clarums at our chamber doors

BAS I think this Talbot be a fiend of hell

(Enter the DAUPIIN and LA PUCFLIE )

(Enter an English soldier, crying "a Talbot! a Talbot!" they fly, leaving their clothes behind )

Act II S 1

IV

TALBOT with the COUNTESS OF AUVERGNE

(He winds a horn, drums are heard, then a peal of ord- nance The gates being forced, enter Soldiers)

“TAL How say you now, madam? are you now persuaded

That Talbot is but shadow of himself?

These are his substance, sinews, arms, and strength,
With which he yoketh your rebellious necks,
Razeth your cities, and subverts your towns,
And in a moment makes them desolate

COUNT. Victorious Talbot! pardon my abuse,
I find thou art no less than fame hath brunted,
And more than may be gather'd by thy shape
Let my presumption not provoke thy wrath,
For I am sorry, that with reverence
I did not entertain thee as thou art”

Act II S 3

V

*The young king, HENRY THE SIXTH, in Parliament
—GLOSTER offers to put up a bill, WINCHESTER
snatches and tears it*

“WIN Com st thou with deep premeditated lines,
With written pamphlet, studiously devised
Humphry of Gloster? if thou canst accuse,
Or aught intend st to lay unto my charge,
Do it without invention, suddenly,
As I with sudden and extemporal speech
Purpose to answer what thou canst object

GLO Presumptuous priest! this place commands respect,
Or thou shouldst find thou hast dishonour d me
Think not, although in writing I preferr d
The manner of thy vile outrageous crimes,
That therefore I have forged, or am not able Verbatim to rehearse the method of my pen ”

Act III S 1

VI.

Rouen is taken by a stratagem of LA PUCELLE, and the DUKE OF BEDFORD brought out sick in a chan —TALBOT and BURGUNDY attack the city, retake it, and drive out the DAUPHIN, LA PUCELLE, ALENCON, REIGNIER, &c

“BED Now, quiet soul, depart when Heaven please,
For I have seen our enemies' overthrow.
What is the trust or strength of foolish men?
They, that of late were daring with their scoffs

VII

The death of TALBOI and his son

“ TAL Triumphant death, smear'd with captivity
Young Talbot's valour makes me smile at thee
When he perceived me shrink, and on my knee
His bloody sword he brandish'd over me,
And, like a hungry lion, did commence
Rough deeds of rage and stern impatience
But when my angry guardant stood alone,
Fend ring my ruin, and assaul'd of none,
Dizzy eyed fury, and great rage of heart,
Suddenly made him from my side to start
Into the clustering battle of the French
And in that sea of blood my boy did drench
His overmounting spirit and there died
My Icarus, my blossom in his pride ”

VIII

LA PUCELLE invokes the aid of her familiar spirits

" LA Puc The regent conquers, and the Frenchmen fly

Now help, ye charming spells and periaps.

Now, ye familiar spirits, that are call'd
Out of the powerful regions under earth,
Help me this once that Fianee may get the field

(They hang and shake their heads.)

Cannot my body, nor blood sacrifice,
Entreat you to your wonted furtherance?
Then take my soul, my body, soul, and all,
Before that England give the French the fall

(They depart.)

See they forsake me Now the time is come
That France must vail her lofty plumed crest,
And let her head fall into England's lap "

Act V S 3

IX

SUFFOLK with MARGARET prisoner

"Sur Do what thou wilt, thou art my prisoner
(Gazes on her)

O fairest beauty, do not fear, nor fly,
For I will touch thee but with reverent hands,
And lay them gently on thy tender side

(LA PUCELLE taken prisoner by YORK in the background)

YORK Damsel of France, I think I have you fast
Unchain thy spirits now with spelling charms
And try if they can gain your liberty

X

The DAUPHIN, REIGNIER, ALENCON, and the bastard of Orleans, swear allegiance to the KING OF ENGLAND—LA PUCELLE led to the stake in the background.

“ YORK              Swear allegiance to his majesty,
As thou art a knight, never to disobey,
Nor be rebellious to the crown of England,
Thou, nor thy nobles, to the crown of England ”

HENRY THE SIXTH PART II

THE impossibility of compressing the history of the unfortunate reign of HENRY THE SIXTH within any reasonable compass, compels a closer adherence than usual to those scenes intended for the stage. But the attempt has been made to render them as generally explanatory of the plot as possible, and also to give that which was more exclusively the poet's, rather than that which might equally be claimed by the historian. The civil wars have left us but few monuments of their actors. There was scarce time to bury the dead—none to honour their remains or decorate their tombs. HENRY, MARGARET, and EDWARD THE FOURTH are from such authorities as exist.

I.

MARGARET brought by SUFFOLK to HENRY as his Queen.

“ Surr As by your high imperial majesty
I had in charge, at my depart for France,
As procurator to your excellency,
To marry Princess Margaret for your grace,

I have perform'd my task, and was espoused
And humbly now, upon my bended knee,
In sight of England and her lordly peers,
Deliver up my title in the queen
To you most gracious hands, that are the substance
Of that great shadow I did represent,
The happiest gift that ever marquis gave,
The fairest queen that ever king received

K HEN Suffolk, arise Welcome, Queen Margaret;
I can express no kinder sign of love
Than this kind kiss”

ACT I S I.

BOLINGBROKE raising the Spirit before the DUCHESS OF GLOSTER

"BOL Mother Jourdain, be you prostrate, and grovel on the earth John Southwell, read you, and let us to our work

(Here they perform the ceremonies appertaining and make the circle BOLINGBROKE or SOL ITH WELL reads, Conjuro te, &c It thunders and lightens terribly then the Spirit rises)

BOL (Reading out of a paper as the Spirit speaks SOUTHWELL writes the answers) First of the king what shall of him become?

SPIRIT The duke yet lives that Henry shall depose
But him outhive and die a violent death

BOL What fate awaits the Duke of Suffolk?

SPIRIT By water shall he die and take his end

BOL What shall befall the Duke of Somerset?

SPIRIT Let him shun castles
Safer shall he be upon the sandy plains,
Than where castles mounted stand
Have done for more I hardly can endure

BOL Descend to darkness and the burning lake
False fiend, avoid

[Thunder and lightning The Spirit descends (Enter YORK and BUCKINGHAM hastily, with their Guards and others)

III.

The DUKE OF GLOSTER exposing the impostor, SAUNDER SIMPCOX, who pretended to have been cured of blindness at St. Alban's shire, but still to be lame.

“ GLO Now, sirrah, if you mean to save yourself from whipping, leap me over this stool, and run away.

SIMP Alas, master! I am not able to stand alone,
You go about to torture me in vain .

GLO. Well, sir, we must have you find your legs
Sirrah, beadle, whip him till he leap over that same stool

BEADLE I will, my lord Come on, sirrah, off with your doublet quickly

SIMP. Alas, master! what shall I do? I am not able to stand ”

(After the Beadle hath hit him once, he leaps over the stool, and runs away, and the people follow, crying “ A miacle ”)

ACT II S 1.

IV

The trial by battle between HORNER and his prentice PETER

(Enter, on one side, HORNER, armed with a staff, having a sandbag fastened to it, and his Neighbours drinking to him so much that he is drunk a drum before him At the other side PETER, with a similar staff, accompanied by prentices drinking to him, and a drum before him )

"HOR Masters, I am come hither, as it were, upon my man's instigation to prove him a knave, and myself an honest man and, touching the Duke of York, will take my death I never meant him any ill, nor the King, nor the Queen, and therefore, Peter, have it thee with a downright blow, as Bevis of Southampton fell upon Ascapart

[They fight, and PETER strikes down his master

ACT II S 3

V

The DUCHESS OF GLOSTER doing penance.—GLOSTER and his Servants in mourning cloaks

(Enter the DUCHESS OF GLOSTER, in a white sheet, with papers pinned upon her back, her feet bare, and a taper burning in her hand, SIR JOHN STANLEY, a Sheriff, and Officers )

“ DUCH. Come you, my lord, to see my open shame ?
Now thou dost penance too.

GLO. Be patient, gentle Nell, forget this grief.

DUCH Ah ! Humphrey, can I bear this shameful yoke ?
Trow'st thou that e'er I'll look upon the world,
Or count them happy that enjoy the sun ?
No dark shall be my light, and night my day ”

Acr II. S. 4.

VI

GLOSTER discovered dead in his bed

" WAR But see his face is black and full of blood,
His eyeballs further out than when he lived,
Staring full ghastly like a strangled man
His hair uprear'd, his nostrils stretch'd with struggling
His hands abroad display'd, as one that grasp'd
And tugg'd for life, and was by strength subdued

It cannot be but he was murder'd here
The least of all these signs were probable

SUFF Why, who should do the duke to death?
Myself and Beaufort had him in protection,
And we, I hope, sir, are no murderers

WAR But both of you were vow'd Duke Humphrey's foes

QUEEN Then you, belike, suspect these noblemen
As guilty of Duke Humphrey's death

Act III S 2

VII

Death of CARDINAL BEAUFORT

“ Bring me unto my trial when you will
Died he not in his bed ? where should he die ?
Can I make men live whether they will or no ?
O, torture me no more , I will confess !—
Alive again ? then show me where he is ,
I ’ll give a thousand pound to look on him !—
He hath no eyes , the dust hath blinded them.—
Comb down his hair ; look ! look ! it stands upright,
Like lime-twigs set to catch my winged soul
Give me some drink, and bid the apothecary
Bring the strong poison that I bought of him

K HEN. O thou eternal Mover of the heavens,
Look with a gentle eye upon this wretch !
O beat away the busy meddling fiend
That lays strong siege unto this wretch’s soul,
And from his bosom purge this black despair.

WAR. So bad a death argues a monstrous life.”

ACT III. S. 3.

VIII

The death of SUFFOLK, taken prisoner by pirates when escaping from England

"WHIT I lost mine eye in laying the prize aboard,
And therefore, to revenge it, thou shalt die

CAP Convey him hence, and on our long boat's side
Strike off his head '

Act IV S 1

IX

CADE ordering the execution of the Clerk of Chatham

"SMITH We took him setting of boys copies

CADE Away with him, I say hang him with his ink horn about his neck

X

The meeting of the DUKE OF YORK and the KING (ALEXANDER IDEN brings in CADE's head — Enter the QUEEN and SOMERSET, who had been committed to the Tower )

“ IDEN If one so rude, and of such mean condition,
 May pass into the presence of a king,
 Lo ! I present your grace a traitor’s head,
 The head of Cade, whom I in combat slew

K HEN. See, Buckingham ! Somerset comes with the queen

Go, bid her hide him quickly from the duke

QUEEN For thousand Yorks he shall not hide his head,
 But boldly stand, and front him to his face !

YORK How now ! Is Somerset at liberty ?
 Then, York, unloose thy long-imprison’d thoughts,
 And let thy tongue be equal with thy heart ”

THE scenes in this series are selected with a view to giving the leading changes in the affairs, and the fate of the principal characters. As much, in each Plate, as the space will admit has been generally introduced, upon the principle of giving the spirit of the author, rather than illustrations of individual points

I

YORK, seated on the throne in Parliament-house, backed by his sons EDWARD and RICHARD, the DUKE OF NORFOLK, the MARQUIS MONTAGUE, the EARL OF WARWICK, and others, armed, with white roses in their helmets

Enter KING HENRY, CLIFFORD, NORTHUMBERLAND, WESTMORELAND, EXETER, and others, with red roses in their hats

“ K. HEN My lords, look where the sturdy rebel sits,
Even in the chair of state . . .
Thou factious Duke of York, descend my throne,
And kneel for grace and mercy at my feet.
I am thy sovereign

YORK                   Thou art deceived, I am thine.

EXE For shame, come down, he made thee duke of York

YORK 'T was my inheritance, as the earldom was

EXE Thy father was a traitor to the crown

WAR Exeter, thou art a traitor to the crown

In following this usurping Henry

CLIFF Whom should he follow but his natural king?

WAR True, Clifford, and that's Richard, Duke of York

K HEN. And shall I stand, and thou sit in my throne?

YORK It must and shall be so. Content thyself.

WAR Do right unto this princely Duke of York,
Or I will fill this house with armed men,
And o'er the chair of state, where now he sits,
Write up his title with usurping blood

The death of YORK — QULEN MARGARET offers him the napkin stained in the blood of RUTLAND to wipe away his tears, and sets a paper crown upon his head

“Q MAR                    Where is your darling Rutland?
 Look, York I stain'd this napkin with the blood
 That valiant Clifford with his rapier's point
 Made issue from the bosom of the boy
 And if thine eyes can water for his death,
 I give thee this to dry thy cheeks withal

YORK   These tears are my Rutland's sweet obsequies,
 And every drop cries vengeance for his death,
 Against thee, fell Clifford—and thee false Frenchwoman

NORTH   Beshrew me, but his passions move me so
 That hardly can I check my eyes from tears

CLIFF   Here s for my oath, here s for my father's death
 [Stabbing him]

III.

The battle of Towton—CLIFFORD wounded.—A Son who has killed his Father, and a Father who has killed his Son—The KING, QUEEN, PRINCE EDWARD, and EXETER, flying before the Yorkists.

“ SON. Who’s this?—O God! it is my father’s face,
Whom in this conflict I unawares have kill’d

FATHER. Thou that so stoutly hast resisted me,
Give me thy gold, if thou hast any gold,
For I have bought it with an hundred blows
But, let me see—Is this our foeman’s face?
Ah, no, no, no, it is mine only son!

PRINCE Fly, father, fly! for all your friends are fled,
And Warwick rages like a chafed bull
Away! for death doth hold us in pursuit

Act II S 5.

CLIFF Here burns my candle out; ay, here it dies,
Which, while it lasted, gave King Henry light
O Lancaster! I fear thy overthrow
More than my body’s parting with my soul.
My love and fear glued many friends to thee,
And, now I fall, thy tough commixtures melt.”

IV

LADY ELIZABETH GREY suing to KING EDWARD for her late husband's lands

"K EDW I'll tell you how these lands are to be got

L GREY So shall you bind me to your highness service

K EDW What service will you do me, if I give them?

L GREY What you command that rests in me to do

GLO He pries her hard, and much rain wears the marble (Aside)

CLAR As red as fire! nay, then her wax must melt

(Aside)

L GREY Why stops my lord? shall I not hear my task?

K EDW An easy task, tis but to love a king

Act III S 2

V

WARWICK having been sent to demand the LADY BONA of France for EDWARD's queen, is offended at his marriage with the LADY GREY, joins with MARGARET, and returns to uncrown EDWARD, and takes him prisoner in a night attack.

“ WAR This is his tent, and see where stand his guard.

Courage, my masters honour now, or never!
But follow me, and Edward shall be ours.”

(WARWICK and the rest, cry all—“ Warwick! Warwick!” and set upon the guard )

ACT IV. S. 3

VI.

EDWARD, having escaped from the custody of the ARCHBISHOP OF YORK, meets WARWICK in the field at Barnet, and kills him.

“ K EDW So, lie thou there die thou, and die our fear,

For Warwick was a bug, that scared us all ”

VII

*The battle of Tewksbury — QUEEN MARGARET,
PRINCE EDWARD SOMERSET, and OXFORD, prisoners — KING EDWARD, CLARENCE, and GLOSTER, kill PRINCE EDWARD*

“ K Edw Now here s a period of tumultuous broils
 Away with Oxford to Hammes Castle straight
 For Somerset, off with his guilty head

[Excunt OXFORD and SOMERSET, guarded

K Edw Peace, wilful boy, or I will charm thy tongue
 CLAR Untutor d lad, thou art too malpert

P Edw I know my duty, you are all undutiful
 Lascivious Edward, and thou, perjured George,
 And thou, misshapen Dick, I tell ye all,
 I am your better, traitors as ye are
 And thou usurpst my father s right and mine

K Edw Take that, thou likeness of this ruler here

[Stabs him

GLO Sprawl st thou? take that to end thy agony
 [Stabs him

CLAR And thus, for twitting me with perjury

[Stabs him

Q MAR Oh, kill me too!

GLO Marry, and shall — [Offers to kill her

K Edw Hold Richard, hold for we have done too much

VIII.

The murder of KING HENRY THE SIXTH by GLOSTER

“ K. HEN Hadst thou been kill'd when first thou didst presume,
Thou hadst not lived to kill a son of mine
And thus I prophesy, that many a thousand
Shall rue the hour that ever thou wast born.

Teeth hadst thou in thy head when thou wast born,
To signify—thou cam'st to bite the world
And if the rest be true which I have heard,
Thou cam'st —

GLO. I'll hear no more,—die, prophet, in thy speech, [Stabs him.
For this amongst the rest I was ordain'd.”

RICHARD THE THIRD

IN the illustration of this play a selection has been made of those subjects which would be most explanatory of the story, amongst which are some only described in the text of the poet in such cases history has been consulted, and the strictest accuracy has been adhered to

RIVERS, DORSET, and HASTINGS will be found to be the same as previously represented standing by when PRINCE EDWARD was "stabb'd with bloody daggers"

I.

GLOSTER meets CLARENCE going to the Tower

“ GLO. Brother, good day! What means this armed guard

That waits upon your grace?

CLA. His majesty,
Tendering my person's safety, hath appointed
This conduct to convey me to the Tower

GLO. Upon what cause?

CLA. Because my name is—George.

And says—a wizard told him, that by G
His issue disinherited should be,
And for my name of George begins with G,
It follows in his thought that I am he
These, as I learn, and such like toys as these,
Have moved his highness to commit me now.

GLO. Why, this it is when men are ruled by women —

. . . . .

BRAK. I beseech your graces both to pardon me
His majesty hath straitly given in charge,
That no man shall have private conference,
Of what degree soever, with his brother ”

ACT I S. 1.

II

GLOSTER interrupting the funeral of HENRY VIII
SIXTH, and suing to the LADY ANN

"Gro Lo! here I lend thee this sharp pointed sword,
Which if thou please to hide in this true breast,
And let the soul forth that adoreth thee,
I lay it naked to the deadly stroke,
And humbly beg the death upon my lance

ANNE Arise, dissembler!—though I wish thy death,
I will not be thy executioner

Acr I S 2

III.

“ Q. MAR What ! were you snarling all before I came,

Ready to catch each other by the throat,
And turn you all your hatred now on me ?
Did York’s dread curse prevail so much with heaven,
That Henry’s death, my lovely Edward’s death,
Their kingdom’s loss, my woful banishment,
Could all but answer for that peevish brat ?
Can curses pierce the clouds and enter heaven ?—
Why, then give way, dull clouds, to my quick curses !—
Though not by war, by surfeit die your king ;
As ours by murder, to make him a king !
Edward, thy son, that now is Prince of Wales,
For Edward, my son, that was Prince of Wales,
Die in his youth, by like untimely violence !
Thyself a queen, for me that was a queen,
Outlive thy glory, like my wretched self !

. . . . .
Rivers,—Dorset,—you were standers by,—
And so wast thou, Lord Hastings,—when my son
Was stabb’d with bloody daggers. God, I pray him,
That none of you may live your natural age,
But by some unlook’d accident cut off !

GLO. Have done thy charm, thou hateful wither’d hag !

Q. MAR And leave out thee ?

HAST. False-boding woman, end thy frantic curse ;
Lest, to thy harm, thou move our patience

Q. MAR Foul shame upon you ! you have all moved mine.

RIV Were you well served, you would be taught your duty

Q M<sup>RE</sup>N To serve me well, you all should do me duty,
Teach me to be your queen, and you my subjects

DOR Dispute not with her, she is lunatic

BUCK Peace, peace, for shame, if not for charity

ACT I S 3

IV

The death of EDWARD the FOURTH

"Q ELIZ Give me no help in lamentation
I am not barren to bring forth laments

Ah for my husband, for my dear Lord Edward!"

ACT II S 2

V

The arrest of RIVERS, VAUGHAN, and GREY

“ Lord Rivers and Lord Grey are sent to Pomfret,
With them Sir Thomas Vaughan.

Who hath committed them ?

The mighty dukes,
Gloster and Buckingham ”

Act II. S. 4.

“ GLO. Those uncles, which you want, were dangerous ,
God keep you from them, and from such false friends !
PRINCE God keep me from false friends ! but they were none.”

Act III. S. 1

VI

The arrest of HASTINGS.

“ GLO Look how I am bewitch'd, behold mine arm
Is, like a blasted sapling, wither'd up
And this is Edward's wife, that monstrous witch,
Consorted with that harlot, strumpet Shore,
That by their witchcraft thus have marked me

HAST If they have done this deed, my noble lord,—

GLO If thou protector of this damned strumpet,
Talk'st thou to me of ifs? Thou art a traitor!—
Off with his head!—now by Saint Paul I swear
I will not dine until I see the same!

VII.

BUCKINGHAM offering GLOSTER the crown

“ BUCK. . . . . We heartily solicit
Your gracious self to take on you the charge
And kingly government of this your land.

In this just suit come I to move your grace.

GLO Cousin of Buckingham,—and sage, grave men,—
Since you will buckle Fortune on my back,
To bear her burden, whe’r I will or no,
I must have patience to endure the load.

BUCK. Then I salute you with this royal title,—
Long live King Richard, England’s worthy king !

ALL. Amen.”

VIII

RICHARD, as King, sounding BUCKINGHAM as to the murder of the two children

" Rich Cousin, thou wist not wont to be so dull —
 Shall I be plun? I wish the bastards dead
 And I would have it suddenly perform'd
 What say st thou now?—speak suddenly—be brief!"

BUCK Give me some little breath, some little pause,
 dear lord,
 Before I positively speak in this
 I will resolve your grace immediately '

ACT IV S 2

IX

The murder of the two children in the Tower

' O thus, quoth Dighton, by the gentle babes —
 Thus, thus, quoth Forrest, girdling one another
 Within their alabaster innocent arms

We smother'd
 The most replenished sweet work of Nature
 That, from the prime creation, e'er she framed

X

BUCKINGHAM led to execution.

“ BUCK Thus Margaret’s curse falls heavy on my neck —

When he, quoth she, shall split thy heart with sorrow,
Remember Margaret was a prophetess ”

Act V. S 1.

VI

RICHARD in his tent — The ghost of PRINCE EDWARD, son to HENRY VI., rises

“ GHOST Let me sit heavy on thy soul to-morrow !
Think how thou stabb'dst me in my prime of youth
At Tewksbury Despair therefore and die !

(The ghost of KING HENRY VI rises)

GHOST Harry the Sixth bids thee despair and die !

(The ghost of CLARENCE rises)

GHOST To-morrow in the battle think on me,
And fall thy edgeless sword Despair and die !

(The ghosts of RIVERS, GREY, and VAUGHAN rise)

RIV Let me sit heavy on thy soul to morrow —
Rivers, that died at Pomfret ! Despair and die !

GREY Think upon Grey, and let thy soul despair !

VAUGHAN Think upon Vaughan, and with guilty fear
Let fall thy lance ! Despair and die !

(The ghost of HASTINGS rises)

GHOST Think on Lord Hastings, and despair and die !

(The ghosts of the two young PRINCES rise)

GHOSTS Thy nephews souls bid thee despair and die !

(The ghost of QUEEN ANNE rises)

GHOST To-morrow in the battle think on me,
And fall thy edgeless sword Despair and die !

(The ghost of BUCKINGHAM rises)

GHOST O, in the battle think on Buckingham,
And die in terror of thy guiltiness !
Dream on, dream on, of bloody deeds and death
Fainting, despair despairing, yield thy breath !

RICH Give me another horse,—bind up my wounds,—

XII.

STANLEY crowning RICHMOND in Boswo<sup>n</sup>th Field

“ STAN Courageous Richmond, well hast thou acquit thee !

Lo ! here this long-usurped 1oyalty
From the dead temples of this bloody wretch
Have I pluck'd off, to grace thy brows withal
Wear it, enjoy it, and make much of it.”

Act V S 4.

HENRY THE EIGHTH

HISTORY having furnished authentic accounts of the principal scenes and pageants of this splendid play, most of the illustrations are accurate representations of the events as they really occurred, as well as illustrations of the poet. The particulars of them may be found in "Cavendish's Life of Wolsey," "Hall and Holinshed's Chronicles" &c. The portraits, wherever to be had, of the leading personages, have been carefully attended to.

I

QUEEN KATHARINE accusing WOLSEY of illegal exactions from the people.

“ Q KATH My good lord cardinal, they vent reproaches

Most bitterly on you, as putter-on
Of these exactions, yet the king our master,
(Whose honour Heaven shield from soil !) even he escapes not

Language unmannerly.

K HEN. Taxation !

Wherein ? and what taxation ?—My lord cardinal,
You, that are blamed for it alike with us,
Know you of this taxation ?

WOL. Please you, sir,
I know but of a single part in aught
Pertains to the state, and front but in that file
Wherein others tell steps with me

Q KATH No, my lord,
You know no more than others, but you frame
Things that are known alike, which are not wholesome
To those which would not know them, and yet must Perforce be of their acquaintance ”

Act I. S 2.

II

The fite at the CARDINALS — The KING and twelve others habited as Shepherds, with Torch bearers, &c — Ladies chosen for the dance the KING chooses ANNE BULLEN

“ K HEN The fairest hand I ever touch d O beauty!
Till now I never knew thee

III

The trial of BUCKINGHAM

“ The great duke
Came to the bar where to his accusation
He pleaded still Not guilty, and alleged
Many sharp reasons to defeat the law
The king s attorney on the contrary,
Urged on the examinations, proofs, confessions
Of divers witnesses which the duke desired
To him brought, viva voce, to his face
At which appear d against him his surveyor
Sir Gilbert Peck his chancellor and John Court,
Confessor to him with that devil monk,
Hopkins, that made this mischief

ACT II S 1

IV.

The trial of QUEEN KATHARINE.—The QUEEN rises out of her chair, goes about the court, comes to the KING, and kneels at his feet

“ Q KATH Sir, I desire you, do me right and justice,
And to bestow your pity on me, for
I am a most poor woman, and a stranger,
Born out of your dominions, having here
No judge indifferent, nor no more assurance
Of equal friendship and proceeding.”

Act II. S 4.

V

The visit of the two CARDINALS to QUEEN KATHARINE to persuade her to consent to the divorce

"CAMPFIUS Put your main cause into the king's protection,

He's loving and most gracious 'twill be much
Both for your honour better, and your cause,
For, if the trial of the law o'er take you,
You'll part away disgraced

WOL.                                   He tells you rightly
Q KATH Ye tell me what ye wish for both, my ruin.
Is this your christian counsel? out upon ye!
Heaven is above all yet! there sits a Judge
That no king can corrupt."

VI

The disgrace of CARDINAL WOLSEY

" K HEN (Giving him papers) Read over this
 And, after, this and then to breakfast with What appetite you have

(Exit KING, frowning upon WOLSEY the Nobles throng after him smiling and whispering)

Wol                           What should this mean?
 What sudden anger is this? How have I reaped it?

ACT III S 2

VII

The coronation of ANNE BULLEN

" When by the Archbishop of Canterbury
 She had all the royal makings of a queen

Act IV S 1

VIII

CARDINAL WOLSEY received in a dying state by the ABBOT of LEICESTER.

“ He fell sick suddenly, and grew so ill
He could not sit his mule.
At last, with easy roads, he came to Leicester,
Lodged in the abbey, where the reverend abbot,
With all his convent, honourably received him,
To whom he gave these words — O father abbot!
An old man, broken with the storms of state,
Is come to lay his weary bones among ye,
Give him a little earth for charity!”

Act IV. S. 2.

The vision of QUEEN KATHARINE.

“ Enter, solemnly tripping after one another, six Personages, clad in white robes, on their heads garlands of bays, and golden visards on their faces, branches of bays or palm in their hands They first congee unto her, then dance, and, at certain changes, the first two hold a square garland over her head, at which the other four make reverend courtesies, &c, at which (as it were by inspiration) she makes in her sleep signs of rejoicing, and holdeth up her hands to heaven, &c”

X

The trial of CRANMER

" K HEN Good man (to Cranmer), sit down Now
let me see the proudest
He, that dares most but w<sup>i</sup>g his finger at thee
By all that s holy, he had better starve,
Than but once think his place becomes thee not!"

The christening of QUEEN ELIZABETH

" GARTER Heaven from thy endless goodness, send prosperous life, long and ever happy, to the high and mighty princess of England Elizabeth!"
